SECRET DAUGHTER

By Sidney Rodin

London MUSSOLINI'S favourite V daughter is in London studying English. Elena Curti is her name—but it does not appear in any official record of the Duce's family. For Signorina Curti, now 30, is the child of Mussolini and a beautiful woman of Milan.

It was a love affair that secretly endured to the end despite the many women who were to enter into the Duce's life.

And the affection that Musolini had for the mother sprend to the daughter. He clung to her with almost pathetic desperation, especially as he was disappointed in his five children by his legal wife Rachaele.

Thus young Elena rode in the armoured car with Clara Petacci, Mussolini's last mistress.

The bodies of Mussolini and Chira Petacal were hung head downwards by Italian partisans in h square in Milan. Only a young man in Mussolini's party and Elena escaped death.

FASCIST OFFICER

Hazel-eyed Signorina Curti, who once wore the grey-green uniform of woman Fascist officer at her father's request, told me: BY FRANCIS MARthe hatred against Mussolini in TIN FOR THE Italy, I fell in love, but the against me because of my birth. against one because of my birth. STORY OF THE ure gone,

THE RAILWAY YARDS

In a railroad yard in Chicago, cameras are used to complie information about goods wagons which used to be gathered by railway clerks tramping up and down 50 miles of shunting lines.

Now, one man in a TV office watches the wagons roll by on his screen and prepares his "switch list" without walking a yard. So TV2shunting is born.

Factory chimneys are watched by cameras, triggered to alarm bells, which warn of excess smoke.

The tireless camera eye guards bank vaults, checks molten steel being poured, watches test processes too dangerous for men to go near, and gives scientists a close-up view of the explosion of an A-bomb.

TORECIOUS little. After the show I is over and the fuss and the flurry subside, only a pinch of Paris crosses the Channel. But it is the salt in the dish of Britsh dress design.

Shortly following the release date of the Paris spring fashions, I set out to find what the British woman gets out of it all; which of the thousands of new shapes, stuffs, and shades will she ever see in her own shops? I canvassed the British clothes manufacturers who claim to take some notice of Paris fashion. "What did you buy in Paris for the British woman?" I asked each one.

The start was promising. Yes, they had bought a dress or two, or a hat from one of the big houses. As a matter of fact, they added, "they were working on them now."

So I put the brutal question: "What are the copies like?"

The milliners told me with touching sincerity that tell the difference between copies of his tulip line.

Tailor-Made For A Teen

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

HEOME decorating may be mother's job, but if there are teen-agers in the family you can bet they'll have a say on what happens to their rooms when the time comes round to do them

That, at least, is what one were outmoded, a few partitions

Daughter's room was fussy, frilly and jam full of belongings. The colour scheme was confused, the result of various sfurniture and accessory additions made while the girl was growing. It added up to a hodge-podge.

One big problem was storage. A teen-ager needs a place for everything - dolls, pennants, books, trophies and all the paraphernalia a lively girl collects in the course of a busy and active existence. Wisely she decided on built-in storage unitsand plenty of them.

One wall is now lined with shelves, cabinets, and closets, designed to hold books, magazines. dolls and other treasures, Other cabinets are equipped with drawers for small clothing items. There's even a sliding shelf for a phonograph. It pulls out when it's time to entertain the gang with the latest record on the hit

A desk, of course, is essential for the junior miss student. This teen-ager had one built to order. It's set in a corner of the room near the windows, so that there's plenty of light for so dy. Its top is big, with plenty of working area for spreadout papers. There are ample drawers for school supplies and books. And, in back of the desk, there's a corner are storage rangement of more storage

Doing the house over resulted in many changes—one of which benefited everybody in the family. It was the installation of room thermostats. This solved a problem for a family divided in opinion on heating-some like it hot, some like it cool. Now everyone an please himself, adjust his wn room thermostat to that are heated to suit personal preferences and decorated attractively to meet all needs.

Cross-Country Champion Had Never Raced In Her Life Until Five Months Ago

By ARCHIE QUICK

One of the most remarkable feats in recent British sporting history has been achieved by a slim 20-year-old Birmingham laboratory analyst's assistant. She is Miss Diane Leather, who has just won the English Women's National Cross-Country Championship, although five months ago she had never raced in her life. .

She went along to watch Birchfield Harriers practising at Perry Barr, and, because she has long legs, shethought she would like to become a hurdler. Even so. she could easily have been lost to sport, for 'when she made an enquiry no spare membership form was available. Nevertheless, she was back in a fortnight, and signed up. As she had never run in her life it was decided to give her some experience across country, and in her first race she won by with left-hand side, potting the baulk cushion red into the bottom left-hand corner pocket. My white ball came off the bottom cushion, struck the bottom lefthand side cushion and ended up in line for the blue, X3.

Addressing the cue-ball very low, I played the blue into the middle right-hand pocket and screwed the cue-ball back on to the top left-hand side cushion to get in position X4 on the last remaining red.

I next planned to get a good angle position on the black. So I played the easy red into the top left-hand corner pocket with check side on my ball to finish in a nice angle on the black, X5.

This position, of course, allowed me to pot the black into the top right-hand corner pocket and by striking the white ball low with left-hand side it made contact with the top cushion and the top left-hand side cushion finally continued up the table to position X6 for the yellow.

Striking the cue-ball low, I potted the yellow into the bottom right-hand corner pocket and with the aid of a screw shot gained position for the green, X7. Once again I employed the potting of the green into the bottom left-hard corner pocket. An excellent position resulted for the brown, X8.

I potted the brown into the bottom right-hand corner pocket and playing the white-ball with a semi-screw action I finished in line for the blue, K9.

My next shot was an angle pot

the blue into the middle right-hand pocket and the was executed with plenty of left-hand side so that the cue-ball came off the top cushion with sufficient speed to leave a good position for the pink, X10.

I now potted the pink into the top left-hand corner pocket with a follow-through stroke to gain position for potting the black into the top right-hand corner pocket from X11.

Her early operatic training was at Chicago, but she made her debut at Paris in the title role of Carpentier's "Louise" on April 13, 1900, substituting for Mile. Rioton, who had fallen Ill in the third act. She subsequently played the role for 100 nights.

· Her American debut was In "Thais" at New York in 1907, after appearances in Brussels and London. She first sang in Chicago in November, 1910, where she became general director of the Chicago Opera Association in 1921-1922. Among her best operatic roles are "Marquerite," "Griselidis," "Thais," and "Sappho." Later, she became adviser to Hollywood studios in the filming of grand operas. Who is she?

SATURDAY, MARCH 28

PORN today, your active and energetic mind could be turned to a number of things. Fond of the arts, you have a gift for music and yet are shrewd in business and conunerce. You have a talent for leadership in public affairs and could handle administrative duties with case. In fact, the world is your oyster! Select what you want to do early in life and then concentrate all your efforts. in that one direction to secure the best, possible success.

You like activity and change. To travel will probably be one of your greatest desires. If you are not able to indulge in your hopes. for seeing the whole, wide world, you will make a fairly contented armehale traveller.

You're intrigued by the occult and the mysterious, although only your closest associates may know this. You have a deep interest in the still unexplained things of science and could posily be drawn into some field of investigation where you could experiment to your heart's content. You might, too, come upon some exciting and valuable discovery which would even unity be of practical use, even in your own times. That would be when your business acumen had exerted itself enough to make your discovery a workable enterprise. You have a rather high temper and should keep it well under control at all times. Things said in anger could be regretted all the

BORN today, you have that rare faculty of being as good in the "brain department" as you are at detailed routine. Hence, you become a double threat wherever you operate. You know how to put your new and original ideas into practical operation, and what is more, make them pay a hand-cone profit! You are what is known in the theatre as a "quiek study" and it is very easy for you to learn new things. You probably were a brilliant student in your school days. Perhaps, so billiant, that you turned out to be a little lazy and didn't do too much studying, because you could always "get by."

Despite all this, you are far from perfect and you must learn to accept advice and correction when it is justified. It is only a fool who refuses to admit an error and correct it. You must learn to concentrate on a single objective, for the stars have been so generous in giving you a multitude of aptitudes that you quite naturally do many things; rather better than the average. It would be very easy for you to turn into a Jack-of-all-Trades, rather than a muster of one. But this would not bring the material success you crave.

You have a strong emotional nature and are popular with members of the opposite sex. You of the fair sex must guard against being more flirtatious than is good for you! It is fun to have countless admirers, but don't postpone making up your mind about a marriage partner until you have lost out!

Expert Shows Keen Bridge Judgment

BY OSWALD JACOBY

WIHAT goes through an ex-YV pert's mind just before he comes up with a brilliant play? Strangely enough, the expert's thoughts are neither profound nor brilliant. He simply thinks in straight lines and sticks to the point. Let's get inside an expert's brain and see how he works out the correct play in the hand shown today.

When West leads the queen of spades the expert says to himself: "I will sooner or later win two spades, one heart, and two diamonds. I need four club tricks to make my contract.

"Can I afford to hold up the Don't push first round of spades? No, because hearts are even more dangerous, and West might think of switching to hearts. "Where should I win the first

Hence the expert wins the first trick in his own hand with the king of spades and promptly leads ten of clubs. West must cover with the jack, and dummy wins with the king. When East drops the eight, South's course is clear. He returns the deuce of clubs from dummy and plays the seven of clubs from his own

West can win this second club trick with the nine, but now his remaining clubs are the queen and the five, with the ace and the six in the dummy behind him. South can easily regain the lead to take a club finesse and thus bring in the rest of the suit.

Mrs. West's wasn't the only Grand Slam. Mr. North also made one, owing to a bad lead to the first trick by Mrs. East.

Who led to the first trick when hirs. West made her Grand Slam?

Counting The Sacks

was in a grey, East End , side street the othermorning, when into it turned the coal-delivery lorry As it crawled into sight, it driver leant from his cab window, and announced with a bellow that he and his mate had arrived.

At once the street that had been empty acquired a population. Almost every front-door was opened, and at each there appeared the lady of the house, who stood armed with a broom upon her doorstep, to await the coalman's coming.

Neighbours chatted, guardedly, I thought, and presently I saw why there was the constraint. For as the coal was shot from the sacks into the cellars through manholes, and as the thrifty women swep what remained on the pavement after it, each was intent less on the actual job in hand, than on prolonging, it, to have excuse to stay outside and watch what neighbours bought.

INTO THE DOCK

A. household finances was under scrutiny; judgments were being formed; verdiets would be delivered later.

"Liz's Jim can't be doing so good....noticed when the cont came. "One sack."

"Nutly slack, it was." "And the way she goes on. Might be flipping millionaires." Upon what, happens when the coalman calls, many reputations rest. I thought of this a few days later, when, into the dock at the Tower Bridge court, were shown the captain and crew of a coal-lorry. Their names were Tom and Eric, and they pleaded gullty to stealing from their employers three sacks of coul, valued at 18s. 6d.

TWO FULL SACKS

coal merchants' protection officer had seen the two men stop their loaded lorry outside a yard in Peckham. He had watched while they unloaded two full sacks of coal into the empty yard, and followed as they drove away to deliver the rest at a little house some distance away.

He noticed they delivered there 12 sacks of coal, leaving one on their lorry, which they presently deposited elsewhere. The inspector called on the woman to whom 12 sacks had been delivered. He asked see the chit the coalman had left; it said that 15 sack loads had been emptied into her celthe policeman said, owned the lorry, and worked on a contract basis for the coal merchant. He carned about £40 a week, from which had to pay Eric's wage of £6, and the running costs of the lorry. An expensive vehicle, evidently, for Tom put his weekly net earnings at only £10.

The two men excused their theft, the officer added, by saying conditions in the house they robbed were unsavoury. and that the woman whose home it was had been strange in her behaviour.

'YOU WERE TRUSTED....'

NIEITHER Tom, a dark, good-18 -looking man of 27, nor Eric, fair and five years younger, could add more now to their explanation, and the magistrate said to them: can't deal with this lightly. Racial Problem Dominates South African Election Sharp Differences Between Parties

Johannesburg, May 27.

How a white minority can continue peacefully to rule a black majority in peace is the problem which dominates all other issues in the current general election campaign here. Voting is on April OPPOSITION PROMISE Convinced of their mission to perpetuate white rule in South Africa, the Nationalists have been applying apartheld through a series of acts of Parliament. These have aimed at territorial segregation for whites, natives and other calcured peoples, prohibition of mixed marriages or sex relationships, and native or coloured suffrage restriction.

Rigorous laws have been added to deal with any defiance. In addition to native Africans themselves, any segregation has

Final Test At Kingston Phadkar Unable To Play For India

Kingston, Jamaica. Mar. 28.

India will be without one of their best all-rounders, D. G. Phadkar, for the fifth and final cricket Test match which starts here today against the West Indies.

After final practice here yesterday, Phadkar, who batted very well, informed the selectors that he could not bowl fast, as his right ankle, which he injured in the fourth test, had not completely healed, but he would be able to bowl medium pace.

The selectors thought it wiser to field a team which was 100 per cent fit and go all-out for a win rather than include Phodkar whose physical fitness is doubt-

Phadkar's absence will ceriously weaken the Indian team which faces a strong West Indies batting side.

There are two changes in the tonn which drew the fourth Test, Phadkar and P. G. Joshi being displaced by J. M. Ghorpade and D. Shedan. This means that N. Kannayaram is the only member of the team who had not played in any Test in this series.

The teams will be: West Indies-J. Stollmeyer (Captain), B. Pairaudeau, F. Worreil, E. Weekes, C. Walcott, R. Legall, night. F King, R. Christiani, G. Gomez, A. Scott and A. Valentine, Twelfth man -N.
